

Comcast is trying to coerce me into buying their Cable TV services.

They are raising all the Cable Internet rates by $10/month and telling me that if I want it lower I must subscribe to their Cable TV also. I have had the same cable service since it was owned by TCI and I still have my original subscriber agreement and I haven't signed anything new since then. My original subscriber agreement give the provision of 4000KB/sec downstream and 1000/KB/sec upstream and my monthly fee of $39.95. I am now soon to be paying almost $60 per month and am getting 1.7MB/sec downstream and 256KB/sec upstream. How is this legal?
